We provide free counselling that can take place anonymously if you wish. All of our employees are under the duty to remain silent. If needed we will try to bring in a female interpreter.

Prevention and public relations

Since we view violence against women, children and juveniles as a problem in society as a whole, we do a lot of prevention work. We offer information events and expert counselling to interested parties, disseminators, professionals and employees of similar institutions. For schools and kindergartens we have age appropriate materials and cooperate with teachers and educators. We advise clubs, associations, companies and public institutions in developing and implementing safety plans.
